General

The Madamfo Foundation respects the privacy of all its website users, and ensures that all personal information provided by you will be treated confidentially. We use your information to address your questions. For all other purposes, we will only use your information with your permission.

Use of the website

Great care has been used in designing the website. We aim to ensure all information is as complete, accurate and current as possible. Despite our continuous efforts, we cannot guarantee that all published information is complete, correct, accurate or up to date. In case the information available on, or through, the website is inadequate, we will do our utmost best to correct this as soon as possible. We cannot be held responsible for direct or indirect damage arising from use of the site, or the information listed on the site. Website visitor data, such as visitor numbers and frequency, are monitored for statistical purposes. However, these data are generic and do not include personally identifiable information, and are only accessible to Madamfo.

Cookies are small pieces of data which are stored on your computer by your web browser. The Madamfo Foundation uses cookies to identify you at your next visit. They enable us to collect information on the use of our services, in order to improve and tailor these to the needs of our visitors. Our cookies provide information with regards to personal identification.

The Madamfo website contains links to third-party websites, provided to you for your information and convenience. Madamfo is not liable for damage incurred through the use of these third-party websites.
